Report projects valley growth

The valley will view the dawn of the 21st century with anything from 127,000 to 168,000 people — mainly young and white — living in their own homes, and, perhaps, wondering how their forebearers muddled through the plethora of problems besetting Alameda County, circa 1976.

City won't take stand on Stonedale Drive lot

A little bit of street theatre — or parking lot theatre, if you will, was visited on the Pleasanton City Council Monday night. Stoneridge residents who oppose a recreational vehicle storage lot in their neighborhood graphically made the point that the six foot fence planned for the facility won't cover everything. Pointing out the limits of a six foot screening fence is Jim Jordan. Council members heard long testimony from the opponents and decided to continue the item to August 9. (Times Photo by Mike Macor)

Residents want grassy area, builder wants RV's

PLEASANTON — The flap between residents and a developer over a recreational vehicle lot on Stonedale Drive appears headed for court, judging by the city council's action Monday night.

The council heard long testimony from the vehicle lot opponents, then assembled for a brief executive session to discuss the legal ramifications of the battle. After the session, the council continued the item to August 9.

The continuation doesn't solve anything, but it may be a tipoff that the city doesn't want to get involved in a legal battle over the lot.

If the council approves the lot and permits Stoneson Corporation to finish the minor improvements it needs, it could risk a suit from the residents. If it grants the residents' wishes, namely coercing Stoneson to remove the $16,000 lot and replacing it with a grassy area, it risks a suit from the developer. With that in mind, the council instructed the staff to continue to work with all concerned to try to get a satisfactory solution.

The long string of residents who testified at the public hearing Monday night focused their attention on alleged promises by the developer's sales personnel that a "grassy area" would be put on the lot.

Barbara Frye, who lives two or three doors away from the lot, said that when workers came to the lot January 12 to start work, she thought, "Oh, good, the park we were promised is being put in at last."

Sam Portillo, who moved away from Stonedale Drive, but rents out the house, said the salesman promised him a park at the end of the street.

Jim Jordan said he asked the salesman about the distance and access to Muirwood Park and was allegedly was told that he wouldn't have to worry about it because there would be a grassy area at the end of his street.

Jim Frye said if he had known the lot was going to be a recreational vehicle lot, he would not have bought a home on Stondale. He said he was "appalled" when a planning commissioner said that the buyer must beware when dealing with sales personnel, an implication that the city had no responsibility for what occurred in the sales transaction.

It would be hard for a Stonedale Drive resident to check out that "promised grassy park", said Frye, because city hall had plans on file approving both the grassy area and the recreational vehicle yard.

The residents contend that the council should rule in favor of the map which shows the grassy park. Jordan told The Times yesterday that the trend in government has been to get involved in consumer protection issues and he thinks the city should uphold the promises which the residents heard from the developprs, since there was in fact at least one map approving a park and the sales people were right about that.

Gas station rejected— heavy traffic

PLEASANTON — The prospect of more traffic congestion at the Hopyard Road - Johnson Industrial Drive intersection convinced the city council to reject a request for a Gas and Save gas station at Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive Monday night.

The station had been approved 4-1 by the planning commission, but attorney Joseph Schwab appealed that decision to the city council on behalf of a group of local service station operators.

Councilman William Herlihy sounded the theme of the council's thinking when he said that the city owed it to industrial developers now served or who will be served by Johnson Industrial Drive to refrain from adding any more congestion to the street's juncture with Hopyard Road.

The so - called congestion problem won't be solved until another street is created to link Johnson Drive to Stoneridge Drive, somewhere west of Denny's, said Herlihy.

The first mistake made by a past city council was approving so many uses west of Hopyard Road served only by one driveway, said Herlihy. The uses include Motel 6, Hungry Hunter and Denny's. They created a traffic problem at Hopyard and Johnson and the city had to spend money on a fully signalized intersection to solve it, said Herlihy. If Gas and Save were approved, the city might have to spend even more money to counter an aggravated problem, he said.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire said that Herlihy articulated her concerns well. Even with the traffic lights there now, the intersection still does not inspire a sense of security, she said.

Attorney Schwab contended that at least 500 more cars daily would use the intersection because of Gas and Save. He said that the City Traffic Engineer, Ken Lamb, told him there have been six accidents at or near the intersection so far this year and implied that more traffic only would make it worse.

Bill Hirst, attorney for the gas station applicant, said that he expected 666 cars a day at the station. However, most of the cars would be attracted also by the restaurants in the vicinity or would be city residents entering or leaving the city, so the only real increase in traffic attributable to the station would be around 100 to 150 cars a day, said Hirst.

When this is seen in the context of 26,000 cars a day running through the intersection, it is really a drop in the bucket, he said.

More talks on Murray housing

DUBLIN — Dublin Elementary School will, in affect, be "showcased" tonight when members of the Citizens Advisory Committee meet at the school to again discuss housing of Murray School District seventh and eighth graders.

Assistant Superintendent Heinz Gewing said a preliminary report on a survey of district teachers, asking whether to develop another strictly seventh - eighth grade facility or maintain the status quo, would be given by Wally Moreskine, district director of auxiliary services.

Copies of a carbon copy survey have been mailed out to parents in the district with a bulk of the 3,000 - plus surveys expected back within a week to 10 days.

The surveys will be compiled by Applied Technology and reviewed by the CAC at an early August meeting.

Gewing also announced Tuesday that summer school enrollment is down slightly.

Senate bill could lessen local school budget cuts

Prospective funds from the passage of Senate Bill 1641 could eventually have the effect of lessening the number of top priority budget cuts proposed by the administration of Amador and Pleasanton schools.

Preliminary estimates from Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business services, indicate each district will get in the neighborhood of $175,000.

However, the three-level priority rankings in the Pleasanton district add up to $506,000, meaning most of the top level priority cuts (as listed by Superintendent Bruce Newlin) could be sustained. The Pleasanton board will make the final decisions, probably at their meeting of Monday, July 19 at 7 p.m.

Included in the "first 10 items to be removed from the study budget" were 5.5 full-time - equivalent teachers (since enrollment is projected to be lower in 1976-77), a potential cost cut of $73,029; reduce early retirment (only three retirees), $5,000; eliminate custodial and maintenance uniforms, $9,722; eliminate fifth grade Outdoor Education Program, $7,067; eliminate funds to move relocatable to Vintage Hills School, $10,600; eliminate towel service (permissive showering), $5,978; reduce the district testing program to level of 1975-76, $2,000; reduce district media center/ library services (eliminate one center clerk and two library aides), $10,000; cut one K-5 music teacher, $12,562, and reduce home - to - school transportation, $30,000.

Total amount of "Priority I" cuts is $165,958.

The "Priority II" cuts, as proposed by the administration, include eliminating of one school librarian, $14,016; eliminating the county film (audio visual) contract, $18,726; reduce school allocations, $10,000; reduce district support allocations by 10 per cent, $5,000; freeze all salaries (no increments or professional growth), $174, 377. Second level cuts add up to $222,119.

Amador first priority level cuts total $110,914, second priority level $36,400 and third-level $214,663.

Thus, the chance of freshman athletics and bus transportation being cut are still quite possible.

Rose says the district could save $30,000 by extending the walking area to three miles for students at Dublin and Amador Valley high schools. This would make practically all students at the two schools "walkers." It would eliminate three buses from service, representing a savings of $10,000 each.

Because of the school's location, the level of transportation to and from Foothill would be maintained.

The proposal to cut frosh sports (football, basketball and baseball) would save $12,000, including cost of salaries, transportation to games and support funds.

Total district support for athletic programs is about $98,000.

Other first priority cuts advanced include elimination of custodial and maintenance department uniforms, $10,303; eliminate towel service (showers no longer required in P.E.), $23,623; transfer grounds charges to the community service fund, $20,000 (this would include expenses to keep schools open for various community activities, particularly for preparation of fields for athletic events. The proposed transfer would remove $20,000 from these various athletic projects and put funds into salaries of grounds people to take care of the various athletic events); co-curricular activities (transportation to games for band, drama club, debate and speech club activities), $2,000; relocatables at Amador, $7,988; early retirement, $5,000.

Decisions on budget cuts by Amador board members are also expected to be made on the 19th, the high school trustees meeting at 8:45 p.m.

Teamwork

Working together for what they have is the reason given by Mr. and Mrs. William O'Grady for their successful marriage of 60 years. Honored July 4 with a party at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William Choppell of Livermore, the Gradys are not the only ones celebrating an unusually long-lived marriage. Out of the beauty shop, into the rodeo chute

When the All Girl Rodeo gets under way at Robertson Park this weekend, it will be a first for Livermore. But it will be the 35th this year alone for Di Hammett of Pleasanton, a member of the professional Girls' Rodeo Association (GRA).

Now 24, Di has been a professional cowgirl since she was 16, an amateur and a junior before that. She first climbed into the saddle at age two, and as the sister of a rodeo bull rider, rodeos and horses have been a part of her life since she can remember.

Livermore's All Girl Rodeo is sponsored by the Livermore Stockmen's Association. More than 100 women are expected to compete in in the rodeo which, like the nearly 100 all girl rodeos nationwide, features a variety of events that differ only slightly from the men's competition.

Di's event is barrel racing. "My bones break too easily to do steer or bull riding," she said. "I tried steer riding a few times when I was 14, but I kept getting hurt."

That was about the time she started getting interested in cowboys. "I didn't want to get myself all bruised up," she said with a laugh.

So, since turning pro, Di has been competing in the barrel racing event in an average of about 60 rodeos each year.

Like the 500 members of the GRA across the country, Di packs up each weekend and heads out on the circuit. Sometimes she competes in as many as four rodeos in one weekend.

In the men's rodeo, barrel racing is the only event for women. "It's an event people can associate with. It moves fast, they understand it, and people like it," Di said.

It also makes it convenient for cowgirls to spend more time with cowboys — not an unimportant consideration.

"A lot of the girls are married — most of them to cowboys. They're the only ones who could understand them," Di explained. "And most of the single girls have rodeo cowboy boyfriends."

Di's boyfriend, from Portland, Oregon, is a bareback horse and bull rider.

"We try to get in the same rodeos," she said. "When we can't be together we call each other on the phone to find out what's happening." Last week her boyfriend sustained an injury, but Di is philosophical. "You can get injured in the arena, that's for sure. There's no getting around it. But most of us are injured while traveling from rodeo to rodeo — we're on the road so much."

Interest in all girl rodeos has increased greatly in the last three years, Di said. But between the boys and the girls, there's still a pay discrepancy. The winning girl bull rider may collect between $300 and $400, but the winning cowboy will receive between $900 and $1,000.

Though the women ride younger, lighter bulls, the dangers are the same.

Fair attendance down, but not bad considering

Alameda County Fair Association employes are noting the disappearance of pickets and the outpouring for Sonoma Fair Racing with a certain degree of chagrin.

Especially after looking at attendance figures for the just completed Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton.

The 15-day Pleasanton fair drew a total of 221,873 or an average of 14,700 a day. Not bad considering there was no racing, pickets were stationed at all gates throughout the Fair and the first two days saw temperatures soar past the 100 degree mark.

However, the total is 48.8 per cent below that of 1975 (433,381).

The Fourth of July weekend again drew the biggest crowds, 23,057 coming through the gates on Saturday, July 3; 25,977 on Sunday, July 4, and 26,010 on Monday, July 5 (which was also a holiday).

Corresponding figures for last year were 65,664 (for Friday, July 4); 47,470, and 28,975.

Average daily attendance in '75 was 28,800.

Twelve of the 15 days saw crowds in excess of 21,000. This year, only three days topped that mark.

Smallest crowd this year was Monday, June 28 — 7,175. The first Monday last year also drew the "smallest" crowd — 17,706.

Of all the special community days, Pleasanton Day drew the second largest total — 14,882.

Total daily attendance figures, starting with Sunday, June 27, were as follows:

11,757; 7,175-28th; 9,141-29th; 15,427-30th; 11,870-July 1; 14,060-2nd; 23,057-3rd; 25,977-4th; 26,010-5th; 8,377-6th; 14,882-7th; 11,042-8th; 9,671-9th; 14,556-10th; 18,873-11th.

Valley growth forecast

valley's population hub, will hold its traditional lead with either 65,000 or 74,300 people. Pleasanton still will be second at an estimated 48,000, but Dublin should jump to perhaps as many as 21,000 people.

So says a county planning department background report issued recently "to be used in the Livermore - Amador Valley Plan Review."

Population projections vary because of the spectrum of methods used to delve into the future — and the agencies who employ those methods.

County demographic studies "based on characteristics of the existing valley population" estimate the 1990s population at 127,000.

The Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA), using the "E-zero" projections adopted by the State Water Resources Control Board, forecasts a 133,000 population.

But totalling city general plans and filling in Dublin results in a 138,000 population valley.

Yet another county planning department projection, the "B series" adopted for planning purposes, sets the population at 157,000.

Another 41,000 could immigrate to the valley if Harlan Geldermann's proposed New Town in the Las Positas Valley is developed, according to the report.

The population of the valley today is estimated at 104,000, with Livermore leading at 49,000 people, Pleasanton with 32,000 and 16,000 Dublinites.

Contrary to the rest of Alameda County, men out number women in th valley, "a characteristic of areas of new population," says the report.

"A significant difference from the county as a whole is the low percentage of older adults, 4 per cent, while the county has 9 per cent 65 (years old) or older. For persons under 18, the difference is also marked, 42 per cent in the valley compared to 31 per cent in the county, a reflection of the younger families in the valley."

The valley also is predominantly white, "with only 3.5 per cent nonwhites, which is characteristic of several south county areas," says the report.

Only 8,423 people lived here in 1940, compared to today's estimated population of 104,000.

"In the 1950's the population doubled to 30,000 and in the 1960's, the period of greatest increase, 48,000 were added to bring the total to 78,000 in 1970. Since 1970 the increase has been modest. The growth rate has dropped to 5 per cent per year compared to the 10 per cent rate of the 1960's."

Following the national trend, the valley's birth rate has declined.

The valley hit a peak birth rate of 26.1 births per 1,000 population in 1960, up from the 19.6 of 1950. But that figure has fallen to 13.1 births per 1,000 in 1974.

The rate has fallen steadily since the 13.1 level of 1970, according to the report. "Natural increase has accounted for 3,840 new valley residents in the four years 1970-74. Migration has totaled 23,000. Most of the migration probably occurred in the first part of the four year period."

While some 10,500 people migrated to the valley in the 1950's, nearly 41,000 crossed the Dublin Canyon in the 1960's. The figures used are the "net migration," explains the report: numbers based on the arrivals versus those who left the valley.

The data has been compiled for use by county officials in mapping out the valley's general plan review, and attempts to "identify and define the issues which should be resolved in order to provide direction for the new plan."

It also sets out to determine "which issues should be resolved first in order to resolve the other issues, all of which are inter - related."

Copies of the report may be obtained from the county planning department, 399 Elmhurst St., Hayward.

Public comment may be submitted through July 30.

Rides are tough but languages isn't

"Besides, we can't travel any cheaper because we're women. We have to pay the same for gas, motels, food and feed for the horses. We're fighting for equal purses, and I think it's coming," she predicted.

Di confessed she's made more money this year raising and training horses than she has winning rodeo purses.

She works as a beautician in a Livermore beauty shop to help defray the costs of being a year - round cowgirl.

She's up early to ride for an hour before work. After work she rides two horses for a few hours. "You have to have a horse to take the place of the one you ride in case you sell it. Then there's always the chance of crippling, and you need a back-up horse," she said.

Barrel racing horses can cost from $10,000 to $15,000.

Just the hay to feed three horses ran her $1,400 last year. Her folks have a place in Pleasanton where she keeps her horses. "I'm lucky I don't have to board them. That would cost a lot more," she said.

The GRA is sanctioned by the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association. To become a member of the GRA, a cowgirl must win a certain amount of money as a permit holder, and then may turn professional.

With her GRA card, a cowgirl is entitled to enter any rodeo in the world. The GRA will cover her checks (and fine or suspend her if they bounce), and provide insurance in case of injury.

There are also strict rules by which the cowgirls must abide. "We can't cuss inside the arena or we'll be fined," Di said, adding that cowboys aren't allowed to swear, either.

The association prohibits abuse of animals; alcoholic beverages, fighting, and appearing without a hat and long - sleeved shirt while in the arena.

When the rodeo is over, especially after the big rodeo at the Cow Palace in November, cowboys and cowgirls get together to party. "Some of the cowboys are great country and western singers," she said.

What does Di love best about the rodeo? "The people — they're the best people in the world, always there to help. If they can help you beat them, they will," Di said.

"It's a family spirit. Girls and boys come from all over the U.S. but whenever you're at a rodeo, no matter how far away from home you are, you'll always know someone there," she said.

How long will she keep it up? "Well, we have a grandma on the circuit. She's one of the best barrel racers there is in the country, and she's quite a lady, too. I think I'd like to model myself after her."

New search for Volkswagen tenant

PLEASANTON — A new push at finding a buyer or tenant for the former Volkswagen plant near Interstates 580 and 680 is seen with the appointment of a San Francisco agency to handle that property.

Cushman & Wakefield, Buckbee Thorne & Company have been assigned exclusive listing for the property that was developed by Reynold C. Johnson, and more recently housed Volkswagen of America.

The huge complex of office and warehouse space remained vacant until Tennis Town occupied one of the larger storage buildings last year. Still available is 36,000 sq. ft. of office space.

Included in the listing is 36 acres of land zoned to light industrial use.

Volkswagen of America vacated the building space when the firm moved its operations to Culver City in Southern California. There have been reports that V-W is moving part of its operations back into the Bay Area, but not apparently to the property once occupied in Pleasanton.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD DEME

It's 60 years for the Demes

"It was a beautiful day — full of wonderful friends, relatives and surprises; all made possible by the will of God and our precious daughter, Edna Oliver."

These words were used by the bride of 60 years, Doris McFarland Deme, as she described the special anniversary marking her marriage to Edward Deme.

Livermore residents for seven years, they were married in Sacramento, Calif., on June 26, 1916.

Mr. Deme, whose mother, Elena Hansen Deme, immigrated from Denmark, was born in Oakland in 1895. He is now a retired P.G.&E. employee.

His bride, the former Doris McFarland, was born in Kalamazoo, Mich., in 1899, and is a retired real estate broker.

Their one daughter, Edna Deme Oliver, has produced a legacy of three granddaughters, and four great-grandchildren. All four generations of the family were present for the special celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blade

And 60 years for the Blades

According to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Blade, residents of Pleasanton Gardens, "It's love for each other not materialistic love" that has made their marriage a happy one for 60 years.

Mrs. Blade voiced that a bit of advise from her mother-in-law made her love for her husband grow. That bit of advise was: "He may never be able to give you things of material love, but he will always have an excessive amount of wealth of love for you."

The Blades were honored at a surprise 60 wedding anniversary party at the Pleasanton Gardens recently. Their friends shared the happy occasion with the spry couple.

The young gentleman of 89 and the 91 years old devoted wife have been residents of Pleasanton for four years. They have one child, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Cox - McFarlane

Pauline Cox and Scott Saunders McFarlane were joined in a recent marriage ceremony held in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton H. Cox of Wolverine Canyon, Idaho, and the groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James J. McFarlane of Livermore. The newlyweds are making their home in Livermore for the summer and intend to return to Provo, Utah, where Scott will continue his education at Brigham Young University.

County govt. at the gate

With the County Fair, the Bicentennial and all those other horses behind us, might the electorate now be permitted a glimpse at the "Supervisorial Sweepstakes?"

Those June primary eliminations sure weren't all that enlightening. Other than a lot of stuff about "Why you shouldn't vote for Him," the primaries produced precious few questions about county government, and even fewer answers.

"Little more than a stepchild of state government" ... "Our hands are tied by the Assembly's fiscal programs" ... "We can't do anything meaningful about the prison situation because of the courts." That's what they kept telling us, incumbent and challenger.

If county government is that inept, then why'n'hell are we paying supervisors $20,000 per year, and more? And why would any intelligent person want the job in the first place?

We believe that county government really is important ... particularly to the vast reaches of San Ramon Valley which must look to far - off Martinez for decision and direction; and critically for the 400 square miles of the Amador - Livermore basin which has only the Oakland - based board to set the land patterns, issue the permits, protect the people.

County supervisors have a considerable impact on our daily lives, and on our annual taxes. There is a whole mess of regional overlays that need to be addressed, understood, debated. The candidates for board of supervisors could tell us about that, about rapid transit, about controlling imported smog.

Tax protest

In Livermore there is an attempt at mounting some kind of stand against "the unfairness" of the property tax. And those property owners are advised to carry their complaint to the County's Assessment Appeals' Board.

In San Ramon the re - assessment of all properties results in a 15 percent jump, and more, in those assessed values. The home owners are in a state of shock ... "but don't know what they can do about it."

Throughout California it is much the same story, if we read the reports correctly. There are movements to initiate "legislative relief." There are petitions and there are protests.

And in Pleasanton we get a phone call from one home owner who has had it. "Where do I sign that petition?" he asks.

Resistance to property taxes is not new. But when people who have worked half their lives to own a home are now faced with a tax burden that makes home ownership intolerable, then more of us should begin to wonder, and to protest.

The problem does not center on local government, or even on the county assessor. The tax spiral begins rather with a state legislature that would be generous toward those in need, and then pass the impact of that generosity onto "those who can afford it."

Ownership of "real property" has always been one of civilized man's measures of success. Today — when the preponderance of taxpaying property ownership is tied up in single family homes — that measure of "wealth" becomes questionable.

Others express their personal success in a fancy camper, a weekend lodge perhaps; the occupant of a modest West Oakland apartment might hold season's tickets to the Raiders.

Some of us find life's worth in home ownership ... love of family, pride in community, a kinship with the soil. It is these values that are threatened when the tax - producing passions of a liberal legislature are turned onto home ownership as the source of all that generosity.

Gold and gravel

It was one of those agenda items that gets little more than "consent calendar" attention from government these days: "The board of supervisors granted Kaiser Sand and Gravel permission to begin quarrying during the time the reclamation permit is being prepared."

In other words — dig first, study the hole later.

We wouldn't be all that concerned with this routine approval of an important industry's request if it weren't for the fact that there are already some 2000 acres of holes in the Valley floor, and we have yet to see any meaningful plan for the recapture of that land to some useful, long - term purpose.

For that matter, there has been no progress whatsoever in development of a road that would allow 1000 truck trips per day to flow through this basin without having to congest local streets and scare the hell out of Valley motorists.

The $2 billion history of quarrying in this Valley has been one of unusually prompt compliance to industry's requests and industry's needs on the part of county government. You would think that Kaiser and Rhodes - Jamieson and Lone Star would be so appreciative of this attention that they would have, after 40 years of reaping that rich harvest, found a way to divert their trucks, hold down their dust, sweep our streets.

But no. The trucks and the dirt and the holes go on forever. Which leaves us just one more hope: the State Board Board of Equalization has cautioned county assessors to be on the alert for "any evidence of gold found in sand and gravel" diggings.

We contend the big diggers found gold in this Valley a long time ago. It's just that the benevolent County of Alameda has steadfastly refused to extract any reasonable public percentage from that $2 billion windfall.

Hindsight/Foresight

'New Messiah'

Unless you're shrewd enough to avoid television, radio and the umpteen pages of the metros, you've no doubt been enveloped by the first of the two-part Quadrennial Follies.

Also known as the Democratic and Republican conventions.

The current offering, live and unceasingly direct from The Big Apple, asks the provocative question "Can a plain, humble peanut farmer win the hearts and votes of his fellow working people , George Meany and Mayor Daley— whoever gets to him first."

Taking the lead in this heart-wrenching political drama is the New Messiah, not to be confused with the New Frontier, Good Ol' Days and Plains, Ga.

New Messiah sits at the head of a table peopled with his Disciples, newly-found, converted and otherwise.

Among the latter is Buddha Speaks, a latecomer to the table who made his peace only after realizing the folly of his independent nature.

Young BS comes to the table as the leader of a grand and glorious flock from the hills, valleys and tract homes of Paradise West.

For his presence of mind, Buddha Speaks will almost certainly be rewarded in heaven ... or 1984 ... whichever comes first.

Near New Messiah's right hand, the one holding the anointing oil, sit The Pretenders ... all potential surrogate residents of The House.

In due course, one will be tapped.

It has been four years since The Chosen One came from the windswept plains of the Dakotas to select a running mate. They-who-would-write-on-stone-tablets shed unbearable light on his first-called.

New Messiah is conducting interviews this time around.

With his all-seeing, all-knowing touch, the humble new leader will spread his litany and guide us all to the dawn of a New Era.

Or higher taxes.

Whichever The King of Those Who Sweat pronounces most Meany-ingful.

For it shall be written that the New Messiah, or Plain-Everyday-Gerry, the current occupant of The House, will eventually have to be anointed by The King.

Who is the real ruler of the roost.

Which is kind of frightening, no matter how you look at it.

Letters to the Times

French bread

Editor, The Times:

After reading ... of Larraburu Bakery closing it's doors, may, I say I was absolutely stunned. A taste of San Francisco was destroyed. ... the two million dollar law suit handed to the Harold Paul family just does not make humanitarian sense.

As one compassionate gentleman, Max Garcia quoted," There should be a limit on liability." The lawyers and the insurance companies are killing this country with these big judgements. I just cannot conceiveably believe that the judge and jury could come to a final decision of two million dollars and literally destroy this Larraburu French Bakery heritage of 78 years. Yes, the child absolutely must be taken care of. But, couldn't they instead make a judgement of payment so much per month for the child's care for the rest of his life? ...

There is probably less then 5% of all our business establishments in the Whole United States that could take a two million dollar judgement ... not only destroying a well established business of 78 years but, putting 100 employes out of work which in turn helps put other citizens to work in various professions and services.

No where in the world do they make French Bread with such unique flavor and such firm outer crust as they do in San Francisco ... I hope, I can inspire you Larraburu French Bread fans in sending a short letter or card emphasizing how much you did enjoy lhe bread and what made it so unique to your own individual taste buds. Was it the crust? Was it the unique sour dough flavor? Or a short note stating that if they were to re-establish again that you would buy their product again. ... Please, send a short note or card to:

2320 Bourbon Ct.
South San Francisco, Calif. 94080

The reason, I am responding to this article ... I also have a family business heritage of three generation, 82 years behind my belt. I know deep inside my heart how I would feel if such a devastating judgement was set upon me.

round the town

There is a problem confronting the nation's news media these days that could put Watergate to shame.

The challenge now is "Carterbagging."

There are Carterbaggers in the south, Carterbaggers in the north. Ah yes, and soon there might be a few Carterbaggers in the White House.

But I am here to tell you that, while many have tried, few have really been able to bag Mr. Carter. He is, as they say down in Georgia, "as elusive as a cat in a wet paper sack."

God knows you cannot fault the nation's press for failing to try. To bag Jimmy Carter, that is. Each new day yields a resurgence of wire service effort to bring the man to bay. "THE REAL JIMMY CARTER," the Associated Press announces proudly, a five - part series. With no conclusion.

"THE MEN BEHIND THE PEANUT FARMER," United Press advises its editors across the land. Turns out to be another recitation of the hired hands on the Carter plantation. Even Wally Cronkite is reduced to blithering outbursts like "Now cross your heart and hope to die, Mr. Carter, tell us truthfully if ..." It is enough to make an old Edward R. Murrow fan weep.

Carterbagging hit its full stride this week with the search for a vice president. Nothing since the quest for a new Clark Gable to anchor "Gone With The Wind II" has so shook the nation. The wire services, the tv anchorpersons, the investigative reporters have just about flipped.

"I have an exclusive on Carter's bag for veep," Bernstein advised the POST news desk just the other day. "He's going for Elizabeth Taylor and O.J. Simpson, provided they marry and promise to serve as one." Bernstein is now working the Washington 4-H beat.

It is evident that Carterbagging requires a talent that is little known, and never used, among the nation's news reporters "You have to understand Carter himself before you can know his bag," one well - known editor screamed at his top investigative reporter just yesterday. The reporter agreed, and immediately asked for reassignment to the upcoming Boy Scout Jamboree.

"THE INSIDE STORY ON JIMMY CARTER - HIS REAL STRENGTH," Reuters News Service promised. The author is a South African evangelist who once went on safari with Jimmy's mother.

If you think Carterbagging is tough on the news people, consider the plight of folks like Frank Church, Adlai Stevenson, John Glenn. Upstanding Americans all, until they set out to bag Mr. Carter in that vice presidential thing.

"I thought when I saw Senator Muskie cry back there in '72 I had seen everything," one seasoned reporter said. "But to see seven U.S. Senators weeping and carrying on like this is enough to make a seasoned reporter quit." And he did.

The Democratic Convention is in an uproar, or as high up the roar scale as you can get Democrats in 1976. Given their experience in '72 and '68, the Demo delegates are leary of the roar, up or down. Even the major TV networks are reluctant to cover that New York gathering, gavel to gavel.

"But Jimmy's search for a vice president is certainly an event worthy of prime - time coverage," the Carter Convention people argued. To which CBS and ABC replied — "We're already deep into summer repeats, but we'll try to catch you on the late, late news."

Truth is that Jimmy has made Carterbagging so difficult that folks are getting turned off. Political reporters — accustomed to mimeographed handouts on the press plane — are simply not able to do the kind of in - depth research that Carterbagging seems to demand.

"Who is he? What does he stand for? What kind of president would he make?" the managing editor for AP was heard to demand of his top investigative staff just the oher day.

"I've got a great feature working on Jimmy's family," Sam Seasoned replied. "Including an exclusive that 8-year-old Amy Carter would prefer to run barefoot across the White House lawn in search of snakes."

"Give it to me in five parts with plenty of background," the AP's managing editor demanded. "And take Sam Seasoned II along with you for an in - depth on Rosalynn Carter. I understand she's into square dancing in a big way."

So it was that Sam Seasoned and Sam Seasoned Jr. turned out their election year epic: "CARTERBAGGERS AND OTHER GREAT FRUSTRATIONS." Sold the movie rights for two million big ones. And that, my friend, ain't peanuts.

STRIKE!

The county employes' strike seems to have generated as much interest here in suburbia as the side label on a box of Tide.

Granted, righteous indignation raised its head over the fiasco at the county fairgrounds. Lots of people were burned: the 4-H'ers and their livestock, horse racers and the afficianados who follow the circuit, and those who predicate next year's fete on this year's fare.

But, as usual, we got more heat than light.

On the whole, it's been business as usual, with the walkout effecting THEM, the unfortunates who haven't yet put it together to escape the Oaklands and San Franciscos that may break the back of late 20th century America.

There's more to the Dublin Canyon than a commuter's nightmare. It's a political and moral barrier that somehow lets us think we live in another, supposedly safer world.

It's as though we lived without the county — not a bad thought, actually. As though the tennacles stretched from the fifth floor of the admin building in greater downtown Oakland, but stopped short just east of Castro Valley.

We curse the blighters when they mess with our land plans — or lack of same — but yawn in apathetic ennui when the topic turns to mental health, jails, or, heaven forbid, welfare.

But just whoinhell do you think is going to pay for the $2 million settlement that tumbles from this week's marathon negotiations? And that record $409 million budget that earned face saving, purely political moans from our five sages in their concrete fifth floor tower?

Certainly not the poor in East Oakland. Their homes aren't assessed at $50,000. Nor the mentally disturbed who can't hold a job, nor the uneducated, untrained and intentionally undermined welfare class we've raised.

You should excuse my cynicism, but I doubt that it will E SUPPORTED BY THE COUNTY'S BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL BASE, EITHER.

Guess whom that leaves?

We yell like hell when Pleasanton talks of hiking its property tax rate another nickle. Good grief, it will approach $1.90.

Do you know the county got you for $3.10 last year and is talking about $3.16 next time around in spite of a 12 per cent hike in property values?

A cool $2 million from a strike settlement is worth about another six cents on your rate. But you're saved. They can't go above $3.19. Thanks for small favors.

So we're saddled with the political wisdom of our elected officials to "pull us from this fiscal mess and hold the line on those lazy blighters."

You tell a $22,000 a year supervisor with a handful of side interests to hold the line on a $750 a month social worker. I'll get sick in the next room.

Fred Cooper, the supes' illustrious leader, has gained too much good favor among his colleagues across the country. Cooper is chairman of the National Association of County Officials' Labor Relations Committee, and the back-slapping is deafening

I can hear him for the next year. All about the property tax rate going up to pay for the strike, with never a mention of the money the county's been socking away for very questionable capital expenditures.

And the mileage he'll get out of the daily costs may make him NACO president Every request for county funding will be met with the standard, "The strike cost county taxpayers (they're great on mentioning us in the appropriate places) $5,000 a day. We can't afford your request, as much as I'd like to . . . etcetera."

But somewhere beneath that politician's exterior, Cooper has to know he could have settled this strike a long time ago. It has been his own intransigence, his "ego tripping," to quote the union, that stalled the settlement until he'd lost support from the rest of the board.

He agreed to this past weekend's meetings simply because his board majority was reduced to John Murphy.

- Joe Bort, whom Cooper has counted on for support, gave up when the chairman slammed the door on another, Bort-arranged meeting.

I guess it's politics as usual: lots of losers more concerned with their crab grass and that playground planned for down the street than in istant county business.

Off with whose head?

ARIES (March 21April 19) Use your mental abilities rather than your physical prowess today. Logic and cleverness succeeds where brute strength cannot.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friends will prove helpful today, but only to a limited degree. They can't extricate you from your more serious blunders, so tread lightly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You can get considerable cooperation from co-workers today provided you aren't too pushy. Acknowledge any favors granted.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your plans will be only partially developed today. Trouble develops when you try to force square pegs into round holes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In business situations today, the longer you haggle the less profit you're apt to realize. Get your terms quickly, or get out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In your one-to-one relationships today, don't try to run the show. Bear in mind: The team has two players.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Watch out for hidden charges or related problems when contradicting for services today. Prohibitive costs could result.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You require freedom of choice in order to enjoy yourself fully today. Knuckling under to please another will spoil your day and his, too.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dic. 21) Heed your little flashes of intuition today. They could prove more accurate than information gotten from others who try to advise you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your first thoughts will be your most practical today. Waste no time implementing them. The longer you tarry, the more you complicate matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Financial conditions are likely to be a bit mixed today. You're extremely sharp in some ways, but equally foolish in others.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) While you could seek to help others today, you'll pull back if you feel they're trying to restrict your methods.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Take a look at the North hand only. You are not vulnerable and pass in second seat. Third hand, whose side is vulnerable, opens one heart. Your partner bids two diamonds, dealer three hearts. What should you do?

You are sure that the hand belongs to your opponents. They have a major suit — you have a minor. What do you think they can make?

Four hearts surely, maybe five — possibly six. If you pass or bid just four diamonds they will go about their business cheerily.

Suppose you jump right to five diamonds. This bid is what is called a premature save. You are forcing your opponents to go about blindly in a fog. They can't use Blackwood. They can't make any slam try without actually bidding the slam.

When we watched this hand in a recent rubber-bridge game North made his bid. East studied a long while. He hated to give up game, rubber and 100 honors, but finally made the right decision and doubled.

This way he did get 100 points for setting South. Better than going down one at five hearts, but a far worse result than playing and making four hearts.

Ask the Jacobys

We continue to get questions about the use of the five-club response to a Blackwood four notrump to show either no aces or four.

This variation in Blackwood is standard expert practice and is used by Easley Blackwood himself. The idea is that the Blackwood bidder who has at least one ace will know what the bid means. If he has no aces he should be able to tell that his partner is showing all four.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Dove & Pigeon rules the same

In the Bag

DOVE AND PIGEON HUNTING REGULATIONS for 1976-77 will be unchanged from those for 1975-76 if recommendations of the Department of Fish and Game are accepted by the Fish and Game Commission Friday (July 16) in Eureka.

The Department has suggested a split 46-day season for doves with a limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession after opening day; and straight pigeon seasons in the northern and southern areas of 16 days each, with a bag and possession limit of six birds.

Dove hunting season would open Sept. 1 and run through Sept. 30, reopen Nov. 23 and continue through Dec. 7 statewide. As is generally the case, white - winged doves could be allowed in the bag only in the counties of Imperial, Riverside and San Bernardino.

EVIDENTLY MOST OF THE SPECIAL DEER HUNTS are quite a long way south. Special hunt maps and information sheets will be available from the Department of Fish and Game (DFG) and license agents by the middle of this month, and permits which will be issued are now available.

Hunt names and identifying numbers must be used in applying for the permits. Application must be made on the card attached to each set of 1976 deer tags.

Applications for the special hunt in the early season must reach the DFG's Sacramento headquarters no later than 5 p.m. Aug. 4 for the drawing to be held Aug. 5.

Late season hunt applications must reach Sacramento headquarters no later than 5 p.m. Aug. 11 for the drawing to be held Aug. 13.

Days for the drawings are incorrectly listed on the hunt map information sheet, although the dates are correct as shown.

THE LITTER - BEARERS STRUGGLED over the granite outcroppings, slipping and sliding on the pine needles, fighting to catch their breaths in the thin air at 6,000 feet elevation on one of the hottest afternoons of the summer.

On the litter was the young female who had suffered a puncture wound in a fall onto a tree snag. Mercifully, she was sleeping under the effects of a drug. Her 95 pounds rode easily in the stretcher.

Help was waiting at road's end some two miles from the site of the accident, a difficult two and a half hour climb through the trackless canyon in the Greenhorn Mountains of Tulare County.

The dramatic rescue of a fallen mountain climber? Hardly. The litter - bearers — two DFG employes and two houndsmen on a special project — were carrying an injured mountain lion.

Hurt in a fall, the lion, whose age was estimated at 4 to 5 years, was captured early one morning as a subject in a density and population study in the area. It was to have been dye - marked and released, but when team members discovered the injury they rallied to help the animal.

After arrangements had been made by citizen band radio to send a veterinarian to the end of the road, the party set out with the stretcher. It was midafternoon before they reached the road where Tom Banks, the veterinarian, waited.

Banks treated the animal and the lion was then transported to a hospital in Bakersfield. The lion remained under car for five days after which, fully recovered, it was released near the capture site.

For purposes of identification and so that its movements could be followed the lion was ear - tagged and fitted with a radio telemetry collar.

Bill Clark, associate wildlife pathologist from the DFG's field station in Sacramento, and Ron Thomas, unit manager at Bakersfield, were the department personnel in on the rescue.

Wolfe third in US publinks

COON RAPIDS, Minn. — Vic Wolfe, from Livermore's Las Positas Golf Course, remained among the leaders as medalist play concluded in the United States Public Links Golf Championship at the Municipal Course here yesterday.

Wolfe fired a two-over par 74 to go with an opening round 70 on Monday to drop from a tie for second into a tie for third Match play begins today, but Wolfe's opponent was not known at press time.

"I should get a retty good draw, though," said Wolfe in reference to the fact that the leaders will face the lowest qualifiers.

The four-stroke loss failed to faze Wolfe, who has gotten a taste of media coverage from midwest reporters since seizing a spot among the leaders.

"The wind came up (to 20 m.ph.) and I didn't sink any putts," the former Livermore High and Chabot College star explained. "I didn't play the par-fives as well, either."

Wolfe, who now attends the University of the Pacific in Stockton, was four strokes back of two-day leader Jeff Thomas of Boise, Idaho.

Thomas, the only lefthander in the 159 player field, shot an opening round 69 and came up with a 71 yesterday to become the lone golfer to break par both days.

The only other par - breaker over two rounds was 33-year old Pete Jacobi of Dayton, Ohio. Jacobi, a civilian employee of the Air Force, shot a competitive course record 68 yesterday for a total of 143.

Thomas, an assistant greenskeeper at Boise Country Club, departs further from the golfing norm by not wearing the traditional spiked golf shoes.

"I hurt my ankle twice in the past two years and when I wear spikes the action from hitting the ball twists it too much," Thomas explained.

The extremely smooth swinger slides on the grass slightly on his rubber-soled street shoes each time he strikes the ball.

With Thomas and Jacobi in front of him, Wolfe ended in the tie for third with Reid Schronce of Charlotte, North Carolina who came in at 71-73-144.

Defending champion Randy Barenaba, 19, of Hawaii, just survived the qualifying round with a 79-75-154

Jacobi, runner-up in the West German Amateur in 1969 when he was in the Air Force, also carries the distinction of being the last champion of Le Club Golf in Saigon in early 1975, when he was with the U.S. Embassy. When Saigon fell to the Viet Cong, the golf course was turned into soccer fields.

The major qualifying casualty was Ken Ezell of Jacksonville, Florida, who had five three-putt greens yesterday. Ezell had set the Coon Rapids course record at 66 on the 6670-yard, tree-lined course in a practice round last weekend.

Detroit won the Public Links team championship with a 446 total, led by Bob Proben at 145, Ken Allard at 148 and Keith Mohan with 153.

Cards win, 7-3

Jessie Velasquez ripped three hits, including a double, as Granada Little League's Red Wing Shoes Cardinals won an opening round 7-3 District 57 Tournament of Champions game over Fremont American's Red Sox at Pleasanton's Hopyard Field.

Velasquez had a key single in the sixth inning that drove in a run, as the winners scored three times in the stanza to break open a close game.

The Red Sox jumped on starter Kevin Trudeau for three runs in the first inning and a 3-0 lead, but the Granada fireballer settled down to hurl shutout ball the rest of the way to earn the win.

The Cardinals struck for single runs in the second and fifth innings and two runs in the third. Although the Sox outhit the Cards 6-5 and made two errors compared to the winners' four, the Crads came through in the clutch, making their hits count.

Trudeau also smacked an RBI double, while John Petlanski went one - for - three.

For Fremont, Tim Palmer, Scott Garner (also the losing pitcher), and Bob and Anson Barabella each had one hit.

Dublin won its opening round game, 4-0. Lee Rigney tossed a shutout while also knocking in two runs to lead the winners. Gary Golisch, Mark Castillo and David Silvas each had RBI's. Dublin plays its next game Thursday night at Kodak field.

Nationals again, 7-1

PHILADELPHIA — George Foster walloped a home run and drove in three runs as the National League continued its All-Star domination with a 7-1 victory over the American League in the 47th renewal of their annual game Tuesday night.

The victory was the fifth straight for the Nationals and the 13th in the last 14 years. Over-all, the NL has built a 28-18-1 lead in the series that began in 1933.

The National League took an early 4-0 lead and then wrapped up its victory with three runs in the eighth inning, two of them on a two-out homer by Cesar Cedeno.

The Veterans Stadium crowd of 63,974, including President Gerald R. Ford, had hardly settled down before the National League was in front.

The NL took charge in the first inning, nicking American League starter Mark Fidrych for two runs on a lead-off single by Pete Rose and a triple by Steve Garvey. Foster's one-out grounder sent Garvey home.

Then, in the third, with one out, Joe Morgan stroked a single to center and Foster, the major league's runs-batted-in leader with 72, drilled a onestrike pitch from Catfish Hunter over the wall in left center field.

The ball barely cleared the top of the fence, sailing over the first "p" in the "Happy Birthday America" sign and setting off a shower of fireworks high above the stadium.

The American League's only run came on another homer, this one by Fred Lynn against Tom Seaver in the fourth inning.

But, except for that line drive shot that landed in the first deck of the right field stands, the Americans rarely threatened.

NL starter Randy Jones, and relievers Seaver, John Montefusco, Rick Rhoden and Ken Forsch scattered five hits, and three double plays cut short potential AL rallies.

The Nationals iced it in the eighth when Dave Cash opened with a single and moved up as Tony Perez walked against reliever Frank Tanana. Bill Russell bounced into a double play, moving Cash to third and Ken Griffey got a run in with a bouncing single up the middle off the Tartan Turf infield.

The artificial surface at this stadium is considered one of the fastest in baseball and it contributed to the NL's first-inning rally.

After Rose had lined Fidrych's second pitch of the game into center field for a lead-off single, the rookie right-hander missed with his first two pitches to Garvey.

Then Garvey lashed a drive towards the right field line. Rusty Staub broke for the ball but could not get to it, and then fell as he chased after it. The ball bounced all the way to the wall as Rose circled the bases and Garvey pulled into third with a triple.

"I knew it was going to bounce," said Staub. "That's why I jumped at it. I wanted to knock it down to keep the guy from scoring. It's like glass out there when you wear spikes."

Foster, who was named the Game's Most Valuable Player, made it 2-0 with his grounder.

Two-year trek

Aquacowboys' return from obscurity

Two years ago the Livermore Aquacowboys had only 56 members, had gone through four coaches and were in a general state of transition.

Then Gus DeGara came along and the Cowboys began flexing their muscles.

They've now grown to 140 members and gave evidence of their strength by finishing 10th in the prestigious NorCal Senior Invitational Swim Meet at Diablo Valley College last weekend.

What reason does coach DeGara give for the Cowboy's rise to prominence in the swimming world?

"The kids have worked really hard and have shown a lot of spirit," says DeGara. "An even bigger change than our increase in numbers is the improvement in quality of our swimmers."

What was particuarly suprising about the Cowboy's performance in the Diablo Valley meet was the fact they were able to score 193 points against some of the top competition on the West Coast.

Livermore easily outscored valley rivals NorCal and San Ramon. NorCal, generally considered to be the strongest team in the valley the past few years, scored 17 points and San Ramon tallied 31.

"Our kids just decided to set goals and reach them," DeGara said in reference to the Diablo Valley meet. "We used this meet as the target in qualifying for the junior nationals in Tennessee in August."

DeGara is especially optimistic about his girls' teams chances in Tennessee.

"Our girls will be swimming against athletes generally of their own age group," he said. "However, our boys will be competing against mostly college athletes."

Six members of the Aquacowboys' girls team have qualified for the junior nationals. DeGara is reluctant to say which swimmer has the best chance of doing well there.

"Kris Franklin is probably our best hope in the distance races," he admitted. "She qualified in the 400-meter and 1500-meter freestyles and also the 800-meter freestyle relay."

Other girl qualifiers include Jackie Ellis in the 400-meter freestyle and relay, Betty Daley in the 400-meter individual medley, Arlene Daley in the individual medley and 200-meter breaststroke and Michelle Aubuchon and Patti Daley in the relay.

Arlene Daley has been one of the Cowboy's better performers all year. She was 13th in the individual medley at Diablo Valley with a 5:20.2 clocking. She finished 12th in the breaststroke in 2:50.7.

Paul Lohman and Steve Ruffner are the only boys to qualify for the junior nationals. Lohman qualified in the 200-meter backstroke with a 2:17.2 time at Diablo Valley, good for 17th place He also finished 13th in the 100-meter backstroke (1:04.2). Ruffner made the junior nationals in the 100-meter breaststroke with a 1:11.8 clocking.

Prehaps the most frustated Aquacowboy after last weekend is David Eckard. Eckard was 16th in the 200-meter breaststroke, swimming to a 2:38.2 clocking. He missed qualifying for the nationals by seven tenths of a second.

Gus plans to race his swimmers in several more meets before the big one so Eckard still has a chance.

Howard jumper nips Wolves

Rick Howard connected with a seven - foot baseline jumper with two seconds remaining to give the Pleasanton Dons a narrow, come - from - behind, 46-45, win over Danville at Amador Valley High School in Pleasanton last night.

With the win, the Dons remain undefeated in the Allied Brokers Summer Basketball League.

Trailing the Wolves from the outset of the second quarter, Pleasanton went in front, 44-43, with 1:47 on an 18 - footer from the top - of - the - key by Mike Hansen.

Danville, coached by John Clawson, retaliated on Darin Johnson's drive up the middle for 45-44 with :18 showing.

Following a Don time out, Pleasanton worked the ball under the baseline to Howard, who in an understandable rush shot with :09 left, only to miss and rebounded his own attempt.

Danville, which has won only once, was down by three after a period. From that point, the Wolves, receiving total team contributions with excellent passing, drove to a decisive 31-22 halftime advantage.

In the sequence, the Wolves defensed the powerful Dons to only five second - quarter points. Johnson contributed five much - needed points, and 13 total, to lead all scorers.

Pleasanton, meanwhile, outscored Danville 24-14 in the second half, primarily via Howard and Sam Jorgensen, who scored eight and seven second half points, respectively.

Clawson noted afterward, "The kids played well. This was the best they've played. We needed this one."

Politics pall Games

(Following is the first of two articles on the United States' prospects in the Olympic Games which start Saturday in Montreal, Canada. The writer will be attending the Games during the second week)

Now that it has been established the rest of the World has caught up with the United States in track, basketball and swimming, the prevailing question now is whether the Games commencing Saturday in Montreal will be the last not totally dominated by politics.

At last word, the International Olympic Committee had pulled its quadrennial el foldo by allowing the host Canadian Government to oust the Republic of China, and was about to lose Tanzania among other politically up tight "emerging nations."

Tanzania's boycott of the Games would scratch the supposed "metric mile of the century" pitting Filbert Bayi and New Zealand's John Walker. It would also gain the African country the lasting enmity of Track and Field News and Sports Illustrated, which have devoted thousands of words monthly to the matchup.

Quite likely, Bayi's absence would result in another medal for the United States, probably for Rick Wolhuter. The former Notre Dame runner is entered in both the 1500 and 800 meters, a truly Herculean task in this day and age.

Barring a massive "choke," the US will get the majority of medals in men's track and field, swimming, a silver (to Russia's gold) in basketball and an even break (with Russia and Cuba) in boxing.

The silver in dribble, pass and shoot is predicated on the fact the US squad lacks the top collegians while other contenders, such as the Soviets, will floor teams that have played together for years. The almighty dollar has truly broken-up that "old gold medal gang of ours."

In track and field, look for the East Germans to dominate the women's events and give the US and Soviets a good run in most of the men's events.

Within the past week a Soviet shotputer (Alexsander Baryshinikov) and an East German javelinist (Ruth Fuchs) have broken World records.

Which is an ominous sign since Americans had been favored in both events.

Tomorrow, some specifics on the US's best chances for track and field gold.

Del Valle lake offers variety

LIVERMORE — A silver canoe glides over the glassy water in the white morning mist.

Daybreak at Del Valle Lake, windless, quiet. A few fishermen along the shore angling for bass and rainbow trout. The slow putt of a motorized rowboat, four miles down the lake.

Deer browsing on the oak - covered hillsides that rise steeply from the lake to 3,000 - foot heights.

Del Valle from the water is a different place. Cool ripples instead of dusty hiking trails; your own beachhead instead of a table at a picnic ground.

Visitors to the East Bay Regional Park - operated recreation area are often surprised to discover the big supply of rental boats bobbing up and down along the docks at the marina.

Concessionaires Doug Hill and Jack Richards have more than two dozen rowboats (they call them fishing boats), many with outboard motors, that can hold a family of four; 22 pedal boats for two people to operate (there's room for a small child in back, at the concessionaires' discretion); 20 one - person kayaks; 12 canoes that hold no more than three people; and 10 El Toro sailboats, two - seaters.

Prospective sailors are questioned about their ability to paddle a canoe or maneuver an El Toro. For the uninitiated, some quick instructions are given. Sailing lessons are offered during after - work hours for those more serious about the sport.

Besides the rentals on the marina side of the lake, there are a few pedal boats, kayaks and canoes, but not fishing craft, across the lake at the new Rocky Ridge concession stand.

Feeling lazy? Hop aboard the popular sightseeing boat for an hour's tour of the five - mile - long lake.

The "Shuttlebug" is a 30 - foot - long, 30 - passenger tour boat, painted a cheerful yellow and sheltered from the hot sun with a canopy roof. Richardson, who conducts the tours, is so accommodating he'll drop off passengers anywhere along the lake for a picnic or fishing, then fetch them later — provided he's not too busy that day.

The round - trip charge, whether the tour is taken in one shot or two, is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children.

You get even more for the money on Saturday afternoons. At 2:30 p.m., there's a 90 - minute "ecology tour" of the lake. An East Bay Regional Park District naturalist demonstrates measurement of water temperature, water clarity and other facets of water ecology and will answer questions.

The "Shuttlebug" makes its runs on weekends during the summer months, starting from the main boat dock on the Marina side of the lake.

One thing to know about Del Valle, according to Richards, is that the weather has a rhythm of its own.

The best sailing is in late morning or early afternoon, when a brisk northwesterly wind whips between the mountains.

It can be frustrating trying to head a canoe or rowboat into the determined breeze. Calmest hours for those craft are early morning, late afternoon and evening. Boats are available from 6 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. The park closes an hour after sunset.

Another good thing to know is that the weather in town isn't always an indication of conditions at Del Valle Lake, 11 miles outside of town and higher in altitude.

"When it's foggy in town, it may be clear out here; and sometimes we have a breeze when there's none down in the Valley," Richards reports.

"Aquatic Rides," the young corporation which operates Del Valle's two concession stands, also owns the boat rentals at Shadow Cliffs, where there are pedal boats available. (Eventually there will also be canoes and kayaks; motorized craft are not allowed.)

The corporation also operates the concessions at MacArthur and Echo Parks in Los Angeles and Eldorado in Long Beach.

Besides boats, they sell camping supplies, bait and tackle, fishing poles, hats, T-shirts, and food staples such as bread and eggs for overnight campers.

Business is better than last year at Del Valle, thanks to the park's recent expansion; but therer haven't been as many warm, calm days yet as there could have been, says Richards.

Nevertheless, people from San Jose, Oakland, the Peninsula, San Francisco and even from out - of - state are beginning to discover the big recreation area.

Eventually, people from the Valley will, too.

County strike talks bog down

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Hope for a settlement in the 43-day-old county employes strike dimmed briefly yesterday as the board of supervisors reacted to a union sponsored newspaper ad that broadsided the board for its alleged "stony silence."

The optimism pervading the negotiations that began Saturday sank even lower when four strikers were arrested at a fist-swinging donnybrook outside a North Oakland food stamp center.

The pickets gathered to protest the county's refusal to issue them food stamps during the strike. County officials claim strikers are not eligible for food stamps because the strike has been declared illegal.

Police arrested the four when 20 of an estimated crowd of 50 pickets tried to storm through the front door of the county social service agency.

Board chairman Fred Cooper opened yesterday's regular board meeting by lambasting the union's "blatant violation of rules which require all statements be issued by (State mediator) John McCarthy.

"It appears to be an effort by the union to terminate negotiations," he said.

The board apparently was appeased by mid-afternoon, however, after drawing a complete apology from the union.

Cooper said the union assumed full responsibility for the ad and granted county supervisors the right to respond.

Board members unanimously condemned the advertisement.

A union representative told The Times the ad was "conceived last Thursday and placed with the Tribune on Friday, the last day to meet the Monday deadline."

The union and the board did not agree to the wall of silence surrounding their negotiations until after the ad was placed, the representative said.

"Nobody even thought about the agreement. By the time we remembered, it was too late to pull it (the ad) out. It was a purely honest, open mistake," the representative said.

The talks will not break down, Cooper said following the apology.

The two sides began marathon negotiations Saturday morning at Berkeley's Claremont Hotel. They agreed to cut off all direct public announcements and to channel them through McCarthy.

The two are reported near an agreement, but apparently still stalled on the question of wages.

Union leaders lowered their initial demands for a 7.6 per cent pay and fringe benefits package to some 6.9 per cent, including a flat 6 per cent pay hike.

But the county reportedly has held fast at its 3.2 per cent pay offer.

Police arrested Leonard D'Andrea, 28, William Schwinner, 25, and Joseph Hustace, 26, all of Oakland, and Mark Hagar, 25, of Berkeley. The four, all welfare elligibility workers, were arrested for resisting arrest, inciting to riot and blocking a public sidewalk.

Police also charged Schwinner with battery on an officer, and Hustace with interfering with an arrest.

Fair's junior livestock sale

Animals bring good prices

A total of 458 animals, including 170 4-H and Future Farmers of America market swine, were auctioned at the annual Junior Livestock Auction Sunday at the County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

Top price-per-pound of the day was the $7.50 bid by Johnny's Meats of Castro Valley. The bid was made on a the FFA champion market lamb of David Correia of the Livermore FFA. The lamb weighed 106 pounds.

Seven of the eight heaviest market steer were raised by members of Bay Side 4-H or the Fremont FFA. Heaviest, 1,256 pounds, was that of Melody Galvan of Bay Side and purchased for 85 cents a pound by George Hansen of Oakland.

The 4-H champion market steer of Joe Gigli of Del Valle 4-H was purchased at $2.15 a pound by Carl Zwissig of Sunol.

Among the purchasers of animals weighing in excess of 1,200 pounds were A and H Underground Construction of Union City, Osborne Lumber Company of Newark, Silvey Transportation of Newark, Joe Esposito of San Leandro.

Other major purchases of the 4-H and FFA animals were made by auction boosters of Livermore, Cable Car Advertisers of San Francisco, Fire Matic Systems of Campbell, Allied Brokers, Codiroli Ford of Livermore, Livermore Locker Service, Allied Brokers, Federal Land Bank of Stockton, Keith Fraser of Livermore, Livermore-Dublin Disposal, Leslie Salt, Richard Latz of Burlingame, Red Carpet of Livermore, and Niles Electric.

Gross sales for the 456 animals was $119,685.43. In 1975, 400 animals were acutioned, bringing a total gross of $103, 499.

Beef averaged 72 cents a pound, excluding the champions; swine 87 cents a pound, and sheep $1.16 a pound, also excluding champions.

Food stamp rules ease

It will be a bit easier to qualify for food stamps this summer, thanks to new federal guidelines which just went into effect.

The Valley's office for food stamp and welfare information is the Good Samaritan Center at 1779 Barcelona Ave., off Holmes Street, Livermore (tel. 455 - 0747.)

To be eligible for food stamps, a one - person household must have no more than $245 a month income; two persons, $332; three persons, $433; four, $553; five, $660; six, $787.

People at the high end of the eligibility guidelines end up getting, in effect, about a 20 per cent discount on their food purchases by using food stamps (which are actually coupons) while people with little or no monthly income get the stamps free.

The government allots enough food stamps to each household to theoretically sustain a family if they plan carefully and shop thriftily. A household of four, for example, is allowed $166 in food stamps per month.

Fluoride for VCSD water

Fluoridation is about to come to Alameda and southern Contra Costa Counties.

Following the City of Pleasanton's lead, The Valley Community Services District and East Bay Municipal Utilities District will soon be launching their own fluoridation projects. Only Livermore and the Niles district in Fremont will continue with untreated water.

East Bay MUD's facilities are nearly complete and will begin in early August serving most of Alameda County and part of Contra Costa.

VCSD in Dublin is expected to begin fluoridation within a few months, serving Dublin and San Ramon.

County health officials are supporting the effort. Within five years, children drinking the treated water are expected to have 60 per cent fewer cavities than they have now, according to Dr. Joel Boriskin, chief of the dental health bureau in the Alameda County Health Care Services Agency.

"They will also have an 80 per cent better chance of keeping their adult teeth for the rest of their lives," he said.

Dr. Boriskin bases his predictions on the experiences of fluoride - deficient communities that have fluoridated their drinking water, such as the city of Pleasanton and the Fremont areas served by the Alameda County Water District.

Sources of Energy—No. 6 of a series

If the Middle East were in the Middle West, electricity would be cheaper.

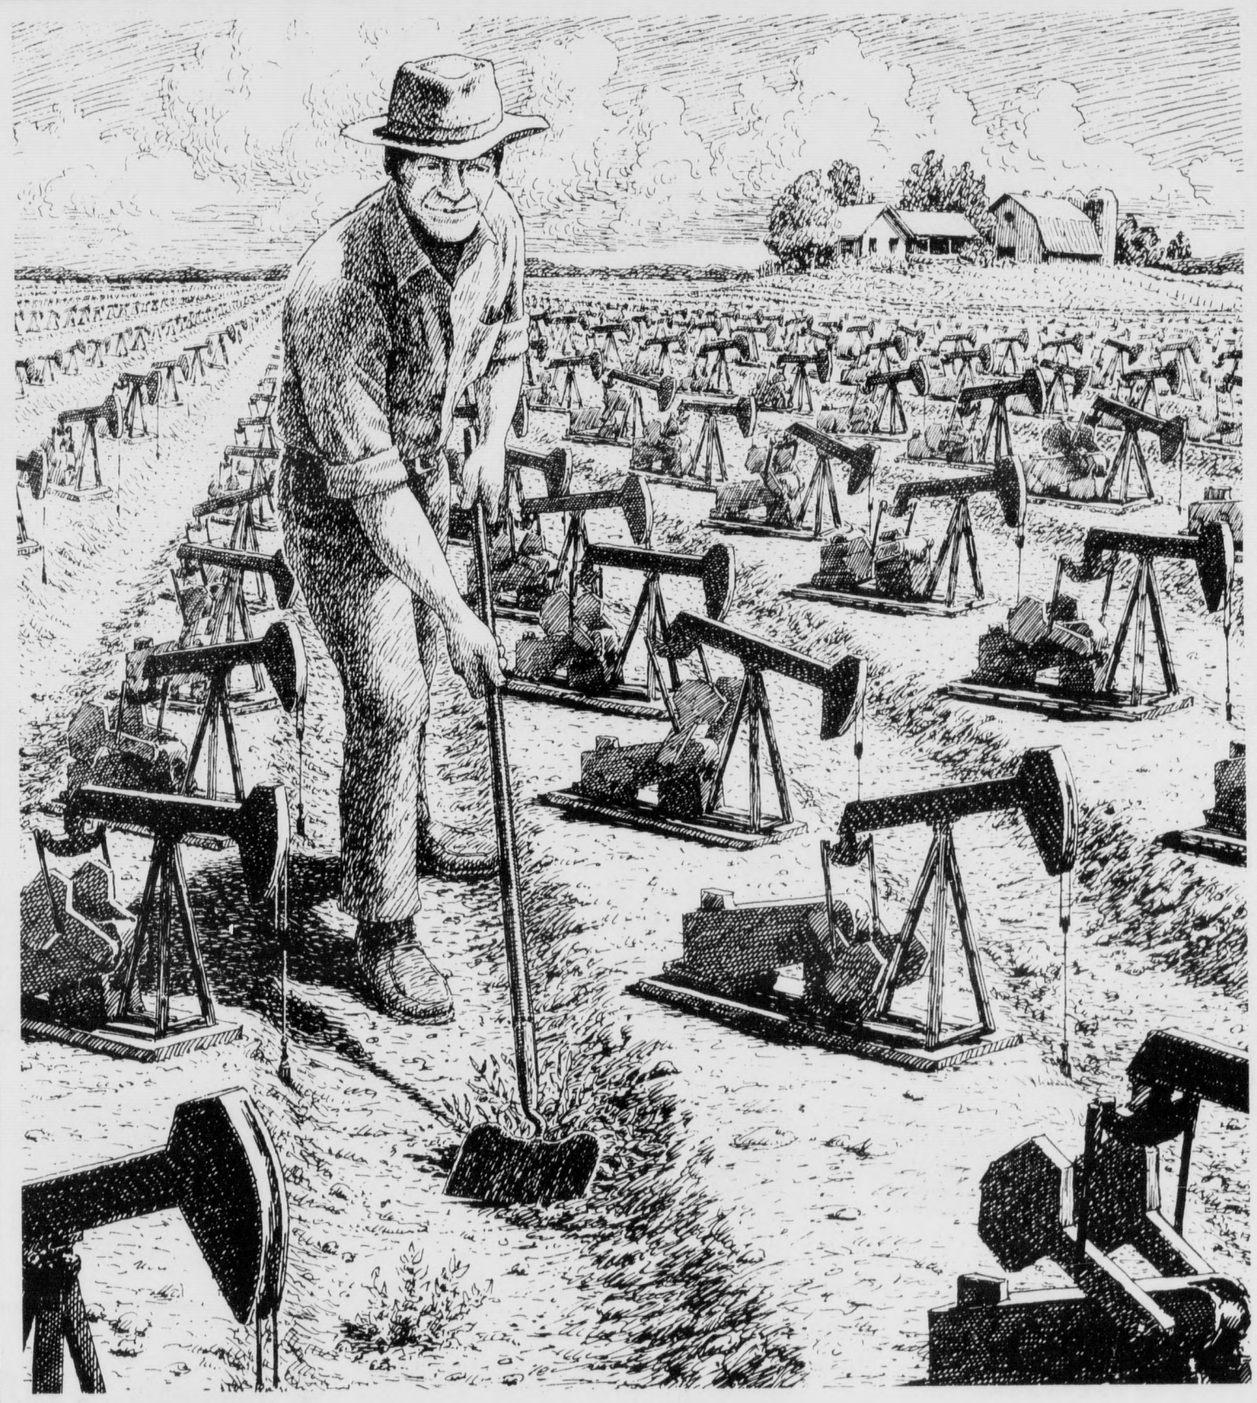
Just five years ago we burned less than 1½ million barrels of oil a year to generate electricity. That accounted for less than four percent of the power generated in our fossil-fueled power plants. Natural gas was used for fuel 96% of the time. The fuel oil burned then cost about $2.50 a barrel and most of it came from California fields.

Times have changed. Today we're using more oil than gas because we're running low on gas supplies for this type of use. There isn't enough gas to go around and we have had to curtail use by our own power plants and by industrial customers to maintain supplies to homes and other high priority users.

This year we expect to burn about 38 million barrels of fuel oil. That's about 28 times the oil we burned back in 1971. And California oil contains too much sulfur to be directly burned in our power plants under present clean-air regulations. There isn't enough of it anyway. So we have to use foreign low sulfur oil from OPEC nations or "desulfurized" oil—which costs about $15 a barrel delivered.

The estimated cost of oil to be burned this year is more than $500 million compared to less than $4 million just five years ago.

That's the main reason your electric rates have gone up.



Other sources of energy

Oil and gas are two of the five sources of primary energy PG&E uses for generating electricity. The others are water power (hydroelectric), geothermal steam (from The Geysers) and nuclear fission.

Northern California has one of the most extensive hydro systems in the nation. It produces relatively inexpensive electricity. But nearly all economical and acceptable hydro sites already have been developed.

We have the nation's only geothermal power development, largest in the world, and we are expanding it. However, we estimate it will supply only about 10 percent of our needs by 1985.

These limitations are reasons why our fifth primary source of energy—nuclear—is so important, and why we, like other utility systems here and abroad, have turned to uranium as power plant fuel. When our two nuclear units at Diablo Canyon go into operation, they can produce electricity for about 40% less than new oil-fired plants, despite higher initial construction costs.

Coal one day may be our sixth source of primary energy. We are in the process of acquiring reserves in Utah.

Wind, solar, garbage, tides, ocean thermal differences, fusion and other developing technologies may someday help us supply your energy. Some may take years to prove out. Others may never become efficient or reliable enough to be competitive. But if and when they are ready, we'll be ready, too. In the meantime, we must meet your demands for electricity.

Facing the problem together

The demand for electricity continues to grow, partly because population itself continues to grow. The problem of meeting this growing demand is critical.

For our part, we will continue our urgent efforts to develop all available sources, to find new ways to use energy more efficiently, and to keep you provided with adequate energy and reliable service at the lowest possible cost. For your part, the effective way to help control the spiraling cost of energy, is to use less of it. We encourage you to do so because the energy you use is too precious...and too costly...to waste.

Save energy-
you'll save money, too.

East Bay Parks' advisory unit asks new fire trail controls

LIVERMORE — After being roundly criticized for the fire trails they cut in Morgan Territory Regional Preserve north of Livermore, the East Bay Regional Park District has developed a new policy to use in similar situations in the future.

The park district recently bought the 970 acres of land from local owners. Officials drew criticism from preservationists who objected to the way fire roads were built through what was supposed to be undisturbed wilderness.

Lila Euler, a Valley Community Services director from Dublin, signed and a member of EBRPD's Park Advisory Committee, has signed a draft of the proposed policy which should avoid such mishaps in the future.

In "areas of scenic quality," says the draft, "before authorization of construction of any fire trail or fire break, alternative methods of fire control shall be evaluated."

Design guidelines include: Grades not to exceed 15 per cent; width no more than eight feet; route to be selected for minimal erosion; design for multiple use wherever possible; annual grading should be avoided in favor of gravel surfacing or annual burning and grass mowing.

In May, the Contra Costa Park Council referred to the newly - graded fire trails at Morgan Territory as an "outrage" and pointed out, "There is a lack of environmentally sensitive policies for fire roads."

The board agreed and decided to set to work immediately developing a policy.

Valley auto buffs to show models

Jim Johnson of Pleasanton and Tom Kendall of Dublin will be among the exhibitors at the Concours d'Elegance de Lafayette Sunday in Lafayette.

Johnson will exhibit his 1930 American Austin for the first time and Kendall will enter his 1969 Siata Spring. The display will be held at the Stanley School all afternoon and feature more than 300 entries for the sixth annual event.

Admission is $2.50 for adults, $1 for students with cards and 50 cents for children under 12. Refreshments will be sold throughout the day. Proceeds go to the Las Trampas School for the Mentally Retarded.

Free shuttle bus service will be available from the BART station in Lafayette.

Parks appoint new PR chief

The East Bay Regional Park District's new public relations chief is Elwood M. ("Mac") Slee, 51, a former American National Red Cross public affairs associate national director.

Slee comes to work in EBRPD's Oakland headquarters July 19, replacing Frederick J. "Monte" Monteagle, who will be working for the district part time.

Slee is a former newspaperman in Washington, D.C. and an award - winning photographer. In his 14 years with the Red Cross which began with the Oakland chapter, he won four promotions, received two special commendations and served as a special public relations officer in numerous emergency and disaster situations including two in India and Bangladesh.

In his last position, Slee supervised a staff of 42 as associate national director of the Office of Public Affairs and Financial Development. He is a member of the National Press Club, Washington, D.C.; the Capitol chapter of the Public Relations Society of America; the National Press Photographers' Association; the Sierra Club and Smithsonian Associates.

Pre-school announces openings

Kinderkirk pre-school of Pleasanton has openings in its afternoon class for four year olds. This class is held Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 12:30 to 3 p.m. beginning in September.

The school is also taking names for the waiting list for its three year old classes which meet twice a week. For further information on either class, call Karen Albertson, registrar at 846-6360.

Kinderkirk is a parent participation pre-school affiliated with the Presbyterian Community Church of Pleasanton and is open to children of all denominations.

Pleasanton planners

Rezoning bids eyed

PLEASANTON — A rezoning for 18 acres of multiples, 15 acres of offices, and 20 acres of public and institutional zoning has been requested for approximately 62 acres near Las Positas Boulevard and Santa Rita Road.

The applicants, Valley Memorial Hospital and Anthony Morici, will ask the planning commission for the rezoning tonight at a meeting which will begin at 8 p.m. in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

The office zoning would ring the hospital site, which would be adjacent to the Las Positas - Santa Rita Road intersection. The offices would be bordered by the multiples on the north and west. The configuration conforms with a general plan amendment approved by the planning commission two years ago.

Another item facing the planning commission is Morrison Homes' request to rezone a 24 acre PUD area south of Del Valle Parkway and east of Hopyard Road to single family housing.

Frank Auf der Maur is applying for a conditional use permit to build and operate an auto sales and service facility on the site immediately east of 3440 Stanley Blvd. The Pleasanton Body Shop wants a permit to allow egress to Vervais Avenue from its facility which fronts on 4262 Stanley Blvd.

The Board of Adjustment will meet at 7 p.m. to consider a pole sign for the 7-11 store at 3760 Hopyard Road, a front yard variance for a fence at 843 Aramon Court, and a request from Auf der Maur to create two lots near the new post office which would not have frontage on a public street.

The Design Review Board will meet at 7:30 p.m. to consider the Clorox Company's request to add 10,800 square feet to its existing building at 7200 Johnson Industrial Drive and to decide design issues related to Auf der Maur's proposed auto sales facility and Pleasanton Body Shop's proposed Vervais Avenue egress.

Historical unit meets

Dublin Historical Preservation Association will conduct a meeting today at 7:45 p.m. at Shannon Community Center, Dublin. All members are urged to attend, and the public is welcome.

MENLO PARK (AP) — Serious drought conditions continued in California and Nevada during June and dry conditions were reported in other western states, the U.S. Geological Survey said Tuesday.

"California and Nevada are the hardest hit in the West, with others showing a deficiency in some places," the USGS said.

The biggest problem for both California and Nevada was the lack of water in the Sierra Nevada, the USGS reported.

The agency said a key streamflow measuring station on the north fork of the American River in California showed only 14 per cent of normal in June.

Measurements of the Walker River in Nevada showed its flow to be 21 per cent of normal during June, the USGS said.

Groundwater levels were also below average in the Reno and Las Vegas areas, the agency said.

The Smith River, near the Oregon border, was closest to normal for any major California stream but was still only 73 per cent of normal, the USGS said.

The agency also said wildland fires have been hard to control because of the drought and scientists are concerned about accelerated erosion on denuded lands next winter.

The USGS said in Alaska runoff was deficient at three measuring stations and near normal at two others. The agency said two Hawaiian islands, Maui and Oahu, reported less than half normal runoff while the islands of Hawaii and Kauai were near normal.

In Oregon major streams were running at near-normal volumes except for the Columbia, which held only 65 per cent of the average. The state of Washington was at or near normal for groundwater in key wells, the agency said.

Diaper King Brian

Brian Burke pats the trophy he won Sunday, proclaiming him "Diaper King of '76" at the annual Diaper Derby held at the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton. Presenting trophy to Brian and his mom is Julie Hemming, Maid of Alameda County from Pleasanton. Brian scooted across the Court of 4 Seasons stage in 8 seconds— a record for the event.

State eyes chemical plant

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Resources Agency expressed concern Monday over the environmental impact of a proposed $500 million Dow Chemical Co. petrochemical plant in the Sacramento River Delta.

Resources Secretary Claire T. Dedrick urged the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to issue no permit until "the full range of environmental impacts have been adequately identified, described or assigned protective measures."

Last week D.J. Callaghan of the San Francisco Bay Area Air Pollution Control District announced a preliminary decision denying a permit for the Dow plant on grounds it would interfere with meeting clean air standards.

Callaghan scheduled a public hearing for July 19 in Fairfield on Dow's antismog permit application.

Two months ago Callaghan denied a permit to Arco Chemical Co. for a $1 billion petrochmical complex on property adjoining the Dow plant site.

In a 14-page letter to the Army engineers, Ms. Dedrick said the corps' draft environmental impact statement "does not appear to be an independent assessment by the Corps of Engineers but rather, an assessment prepared for Dow by their consultants."

She added that the National Environmental Protection Act should require consideration of all environmental effects by the corps, "even though the corps' permit jurisdiction is limited to facilities associated with navigable waterways."

Newly elected directors

Zone 7 chairman pegs committees

The three newly - elected members of the Zone 7 water management board have been named to the wastewater committee, which will determine who is to formulate guidelines for future sewage disposal in the valley.

Gib Marguth, Archer Futch and Ed Kinney, the top three vote - getters in a field of eight candidates in the June 8 election, were named to the board's wastewater committee Friday by Chairman George Lydiksen.

Richard Ryon, who was formerly on the wastewater committee and had requested continuing the assignment, was removed and placed on two other committees despite the seniority he had accumulated.

Ryon expressed mild disappointment at the removal, but said he was content to sit on the finance, arroyo and flood, and monitoring committees, the latter of which he chairs.

"That's kind of in line with his (Lydiksen) being chairman. He wants the committee to reflect the majority view. I can't be too upset — any decision they make should consequently come back to the full board," Ryon said yesterday.

Ryon said he wasn't really "too strong" on the wastewater committee — "I'd done all I could, given the present majority. Archer (Futch) is certainly well - grounded in this area, having served on LAVWMA (Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency)."

The make-up of the wastewater committee has been the subject of close scrutiny after an election that produced lengthy debate on the disposal of sewage from the valley.

Zone 7 technically has the power to determine a sewage disposal program for the entire valley, and will attempt to work out an arrangement with LAVWMA on ultimate authority on the issue.

Pleasanton, Livermore and the Valley Community Services District currently operate wastewater treatment plants and dump most of the treated sewage down the Alameda Creek. State officials have determined that the treated sewage is not clean enough, and is polluting communities in Newark and the south county.

Subsequently, the state has ordered the two cities and VCSD to work together under the LAVWMA name and build a pipeline, in which treated sewage from two plants serving the entire valley would be pumped to San Francisco Bay.

If Zone 7 decides to take over planning for sewage disposal in the valley, the cities would lose a great deal of their voice in the matter. Therefore, LAVWMA and Zone 7's wastewater committee will attempt to work out a solution over who controls the disposal of sewage.

Sewage disposal rates effectively determine the rate and placement of growth, and could have major influence on future construction in the valley.

Other committee appointments announced are as follows, each chairman appearing first:

- Finance — Lydiksen, Marguth and Ryon.
- Arroyo and Flood — Futch, Kinney and Ryon.
- Administration — Kinney, Joseph Concannon, Jr., and Robert Pearson.
- Water — Concannon, Futch and Pearson.
- Monitoring — Ryon, Concannon and Pearson.
- Corps Study Liaison — Pearson, Futch and Marguth.

Ryon was named representative to gravel talks, and Pearson was appointed representative to the Congraess of Valley Agencies, with Marguth as alternate.

Alien arrests way down

PLEASANTON — Arrests of illegal aliens — usually Mexicans working as farm laborers — was dramatically down in the Livermore Station this year compared with last.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 3,104 aliens were nabbed, compared with 3,823 a year ago — a 19 per cent decrease.

The Livermore Station is the U.S. Border Patrol's designation for the area of Alameda, northern Santa Clara, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Trinity, Humboldt and Del Norte Counties. Headquarters are at Camp Parks on the Pleasanton - Dublin line.

Meanwhile, arrests in the Livermore Sector as a whole — 49 counties of Northern California — have gone up. According to Herbert E. Walsh, chief patrol agent, there were 6,539 illegal aliens arrested in that area in June, up 308 from last June.

Four out of five of the aliens arrested were working, most making $2.50 to $4.49 an hour. Eight were receiving welfare.

For the past fiscal year, arrests in the Livermore Sector were up 10 per cent overall, reaching a high of 62,045 arrests.

Trudeau elected to nationwide parks position

East Bay Regional Park District chief Richard Trudeau has been elected second vice president of the National Association of County Park and Recreation Officials (NACPRO.)

Trudeau, head of the Alameda and Contra Costa County regional park district, won the honor at NACPRO's annual meeting recently in Salt Lake City. NACPRO is affiliated with the National Association of Counties.

Granada holding kids' matinee as pep benefit

LIVERMORE — What better way to spend a hot Wednesday afternoon than guzzling popcorn while watching Jerry Lewis in "Cinder - fella?"

That is, if you're nine years old and Mom gives you 75 cents to go to the kiddie matinee at Granada High School. Today and for the next two weeks, the GHS Yellstaff (cheerleaders) are staging the movie shows to raise mpney for their August visit to a training camp in Santa Cruz.

The girls are selling popcorn and drinks at the shows as well as supervising during the movie.

The movies are 3 to 5 p.m. in the Granada High English building on the central part of the campus — rooms 504 - 5.

Next week, it will be "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," an animated version of the classic Mark Twain tale. On the 28, Hans Christian Anderson's fairy tale, "The Tinderbox," will be shown.
